

Annual Report 2016

A celebration celebrating 20 years of National Poetry Month. Poetry line readings. If you believe in snow, you have to believe believe. I have had to learn the simplest things last. Bad things are going to happen. Outside taillights slash the night: red and more red. This is the cycle of life at times uncertain- certain. The meek inherit nothing. Admit it- The argument had smoldered for a week, I probably should've said what I meant. As if it were a scene made-up by the mind. Poetry. Over rips and tears. You tossed a blanket from the bed. To bear and to enjoy, endure and do. I sit in the bare apartment. what was meant. Unless. Unless. Unless. April 2016.

Write Local: An Evening with Local Authors

Do you have a muse that encourages you to write, to be an author and see your name in print? Have you ever wondered how to publish those poems or short stories that just constantly whisper-publish me or do you have a file cabinet full of articles, stories or even a novel that begs to see the light of day?

Find answers to these and other questions with our panel of local authors at "Write Local" on Thursday, November 17 from 5 to 6:30 at the Ron E. Lewis Library on the Lamar State College-Orange Campus. Join us as we learn about writing and publishing and meet some local authors.
